Red Cross Imagine No Bullying Presentation – February 15, 2017

Each year players are trained by the Red Cross to speak about bullying. The Red Cross bullying prevention education is evidence-based and explores all aspects of bullying and peer harassment. Last year, more than 20,000 students were reached through these presentations. This Red Cross program is also recommended as a resource by the Saskatchewan Ministry of Education.

At present Scott McHenry, Dan Clark, Levi Steinhauer, Nic Demski, Weldon Brown and Anthony Allen have been trained by the Red Cross and are delivering presentations at schools. Past players that have been involved are Neal Hughes, Luc Mullinder, Keith Shologan, Chris Getzlaf and Weston Dressler.

Allan School is pleased to have Levi Steinhauer present to Grade 5 – 12 students on February 15th. He will also be doing classroom visits to the Grade 1- 4 classes.
